1.1 Call to order

Meghan calls meeting to order at 5:33

1.2 Overview/Introduction of Agenda

1.3 Presentation from Chair, School of Business/VP Finance

Meghan discussed the potential to have a Case Study competition. Case Study competition would be the School Business presenting a case with faculty and alumni to judge the contest. VP Finance not present

1.3.1 Questions for the presenter

Q: When will it be?

A: Maybe April – depending on students schedules

1.4 Presentation from Chair, School of Business

Meghan introduces the idea of a School of Business year end party. It would be on a cost basis and aimed to engage the School of Business. If anyone would like to support with organizing get in contact with VP Finance, Jessica or Meghan.

1.4.1 Questions for the presenter

Q: Would students be allowed to bring guest?

A: Most likely.

Q: Will 'underagers' be allowed to attend?

A: Yes, will try and make an event where alcohol and underage students can attend.

1.4 Open Forum

Meghan to discuss failout rates and policy for first year students.

If students fail a course they must appeal within 20 days of receiving final grade or 3 days into the next semester. Student can discuss with the Advocate, Robyn. Students can also talk to instructors as they can sometimes bump students up.

1.4.1 Questions

Q: How many courses can students fail?

A: Most courses in first year are building blocks, so if a student fails a class it will be difficult to move on. Students are entitled to see their tests. Students can lose their positions. There is a 3 strike policies – after 3 times of failing then students are unable to re-register.

Q: An International student missed 2 weeks due to visa was sick for a week and missed class. Teacher refused to mark paper until he gets a doctors note. What should they do?

A: Go to student advocacy
